

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An electronic apparatus, particularly a camera, includes a clock signal circuit that generates a clock signal at a predetermined cycle, and a non-volatile memory circuit for counting clock signal pulses generated by the clock signal circuit and storing the counted signals.